Coaching Approach

Leen Lambrechts is a passionate coach. She demonstrates unconditional and reliable partnership in supporting her clients' search for results. Leen is an empathic listener with a good eye for seeing the core issue within the original question and sharing her insights as working hypotheses with her clients. She enjoys openness and directness in the coaching relationship and likes to work in a practical and visual way.

As a result of her broad management, project, and trainer experiences, she works confidently in very diverse companies and on a wide variety of themes. Such themes have included: client orientation, quality and safety, production environment, sales confidence, internal communication, team building, coaching skills and leadership.
